

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Hereford:
PRINTED BY J. ALLEN, HIGH-TOWN.

Gough Add. Hereford

In this Catalogue, the Titles of the principal Books or Pamphlets are correct transcripts from the original works ; but where the publication is of minor consequence, the Printer's name, motto, &c. is generally left out. The size of each volume, the number of pages, and notices of the engravings or wood-cuts, have been inserted in every instance where I had access to the work described. For an account of a few of the Books, &c. it has been necessary to rely on printed catalogues, in which the shortest possible title is usually given, and for the correctness of which it is impossible to vouch. I presume that few local publications relating to the County of Hereford have been omitted, but there are, doubtless, some, which have escaped my notice.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

COLLECTIONS towards the History of Herefordshire have been made at different periods by several individuals; but, with the exception of the unfinished work of Mr. Duncumb, no attempt has yet been made to publish a general history of a county, so replete with interest from its antiquities, its picturesque scenery, fertility, and beauty.

The mss. collections, still existing, afford an ample source of information on almost every subject connected with its parochial history, and castellated or monastic remains. The rich stores of the British Museum and Bodleian Library supply copious accounts of the pedigrees and arms of the ancient families, as well as their manorial rights, and hereditary possessions; nor is there any lack of matter towards forming a complete history of its ecclesiastic and civic importance. The judicious publications of the Record Committee (under the sanction of Parliament,) form at once a key to the knowledge of most valuable and authentic documents, relative to chartered rights, public grants, and transfer of landed property, objects of the first magnitude to the local historian.

A concise notice of the collections already formed, may prove useful in future investigation, and will be an appropriate introduction to the following descriptive catalogue of printed Books, Pamphlets, Maps, Prints, &c. published to illustrate the County of Hereford.

The earliest collector, for this purpose, was Silas Taylor, a captain in the parliamentary army during the civil wars, who preserved many mss. from the plundered library of the cathedral in 1645, and who left large materials for a general history, since, in great part, lost or destroyed. A few of his papers will be found amongst the Harleian mss. in the British Museum ; and a reference to the Catalogue published in 1769, (2 vols. folio) will give a short account of the contents of the undermentioned numbers in that valuable and magnificent literary repository. No. 4046, history of the City- 7366, the antiquities of Hereford, 2 folio vols. - 154, 615, 807, 1052, 1057, 1068, 1087, 1110, 1140, 1155, 1159, 1172, 1174, 1178, 1386, 1393, 1412, 1434, 1442, 1451, 1457, 1499, 1545, 2116, 2121, 2141, 2152, 2218, 2230, 4056, 5799, 6124, 6136, 6139, 6153, 6596, contain many genealogies, descents, armorial bearings, &c. of the nobility and gentry - 141, 354, 433, 606, 607, 608, 762, 1667, 4131, 5013, 6336, 6695, 6720, 7369, surveys, grants, sales, &c. of landed property - 696, customs - 6856, 7519, collections from Domesday book by S. Taylor and Dr. Hutton - 5223, 6728, 6766, 6868, collections, topography, &c. - 396, 595, 596, 695, 980, 1087, 1850, 2983, 3789, 4056, 4343, 4833, 5223, 6203, 6726, 6748, 7032, 7043, of bishops, cathedral, statutes, grants, and other ecclesiastical affairs - 259, 2121, 2122, 2141, 5223, lists of sheriffs, justices, mayors, &c. - 473, 2129, 6127, 6765, 6808, 6809, 6842, church notes, law papers, miscellanies - 1192, 4271, military force - 1240, liber niger de Wigmore - 469, life of Bp. Betun - 529, Breton, Bp. of Hereford, de legibus: and perhaps other numbers in the catalogue.

Thomas Blount, Esq. barrister, of Orleton, made great progress, having collected materials for two folio volumes about 1675, one volume of which is unfortunately lost, the other is now in the possession of Wm. Blount, Esq. M. D. (late of Hereford,) and commences with the letter L. continuing to the end of the alphabet. This undertaking was greatly assisted by Sir W. Dugdale, R. Dobyns, H. Cornwall, and others, Blount intended to have described the various parishes, townships, &c. in alphabetic order: the volume now remaining, contains numerous letters and loose papers, with church notes, remarks, &c. the whole in bad preservation.

Mr. James Hill, of the Middle Temple, London, was a most industrious collector, having visited the parish churches himself and taken notes on the spot, extracts from registers, &c. He issued proposals, about 1715, for publishing by subscription the History of the City of Hereford; "containing an exact and regular account of that place, from its most early age to this time, divided into two parts; the first of which treats of its ecclesiastical, the second of its civil state;" &c. "the whole will be illustrated by transcripts from original records, and will be adorned with geometrical plans of the city, churches, monasteries, and chapels; together with draughts of funeral monuments, arms, ancient seals, effigies of bishops, and other persons of distinction, engraven by the most eminent hands:" the price to subscribers, two guineas for large, and thirty shillings for small paper copies." At the bottom of his printed proposals, (a folio half sheet,) he announces another volume, of the County, if the one on the City meets encouragement. These projected works were not so liberally supported as their author supposed they would be, and in consequence never appeared. Hill's papers, after his death in 1727, were sold by his brother (a schoolmaster) to Isaac Taylor, (the celebrated surveyor) who purchased them for John Roberts, Esq. of Ross, by whom many additions were made, and regular indexes to all the volumes, &c. arranged. On Dr. Roberts' death in 1776, they were again sold to Mr. Clarke, registrar of Hereford, from whom they came to their present proprietor the Rev. James Clarke. Hill's and Roberts' collections were for a long time in my possession, when I had the greater part of the loose papers carefully bound in volumes to preserve them from farther injury: before they came to my hands they had been negligently kept, for some years, in an open box, in a damp room, and consequently many of the mss. copies of charters, &c. were very much decayed, and the bindings damaged. Not agreeing afterwards with Mr. Clarke as to the price of these papers, the whole collection was returned; making together, about 20 volumes of various sizes, and several memorandum books and loose papers. The collections for parishes have rude sketches of the churches, monuments, seals, &c. and are comprised in 3 vols. in small 4to. - the history of the city, lives of bishops, cathedral statutes, church grants, &c. in a thick 4to. - a treatise of the mayors, stewards, charters, customs, privileges, wills, disputes between bishops and mayors, extracts from records, &c. a 4to. - copies of charters relating to city, cathedral, Dynemore, Archenfield, &c. folio - extracts from patent rolls, grants, charters, &c. 3 thin vols. 4to. - miscellaneous papers, letters, and extracts: folio - inquisitiones post mortem, and lands held in ca-pite, &c. in Herefordshire and the neighbouring counties: folio - six volumes in 12mo. are Dr. Roberts' additions and indexes; and the memorandum books contain church notes and miscellaneous notices. Gough mentions a collection of 35 ancient original deeds, with their seals, relative to the county of Hereford, most of them marked on the back with the name of Hill, given by the late Mr. Joshua Blew, (librarian of the Inner Temple, a Herefordshire man) to Dr. Ducarell. Hill was a poet as well as an antiquary, and verses on his death will be found in Husbands' miscellany of poems, 8vo. 1731, page 134. An accurate survey of Ariconium and of Hereford was shewn by Mr. Hill in 1721, 2, to the Society of Antiquaries.

William Brome, Esq. of Ewithington, made large collections, but unfortunately abandoned a work for which he was eminently qualified, and destroyed the whole of his papers.

Richard Walwyn, Esq. issued a printed circular letter with queries, (folio half sheet, 2 pages) dated Hereford, All Saints day, 1749, in which he proposes to publish a work on the history and antiquities of the county, it encouraged by the nobility, clergy, and gentry; but dying within a short time after, the intention was frustrated. He notices in his circular the destruction of Brome's collections.

Lord Coningsby, Dr. Coningsby, Robert Dobyns, Esq. of Eastbach, — Symonds, Esq. and James Walwyn, Esq. made collections for the same purpose, but most of their papers have been either lost or dispersed.

Gough notices a Mr. Black of Leominster as having valuable materials for this county.

The late Richard Blyke, Esq. F. A. S. deputy auditor of the imprest, made large collections for a history of his native county, which were purchased by the late Charles, Duke of Norfolk, and are now in the possession of the Rev. John Duncumb, F. A. S. who is engaged in completing the work, commenced under his Grace's patronage. Blyke's materials, (according to Gough) comprised 22 volumes of various sizes, properly digested under the several following heads, and fairly written: viz. 1, 2, fees - 3, miscellanies - 4, 5, a complete history of the castle - 6, religious houses from the augmentation office - 7, taxations - 8, tenths - 9, cathedral matters - 10, 11, charters of religious houses from the augmentation office, and bishop's registers - 12, grants of crown lands, t. Hen. 8 - 13, Acconbury priory and Hereford city - 14, crown lands, chantries, and ship money - 15, lists of incumbents - 16, first fruits - 17, mayors of Hereford, &c. - 18, state of the baronetage - 19, 20, 21, Domesday, &c. - 22, ancient deeds, &c.

David Pugh (alias Dr. Hughson,) collected many mss. church notes, &c. under the patronage of the late Duke of Norfolk, about 40 years ago, but on his leaving the county, the papers were never restored, and are now in all probability destroyed or lost.

The collections of the Rev. John Lodge, M.A. were given by him to Mr. John Price, (teacher of languages at Leominster,) author of the history of Hereford, Leominster, &c. and since Price's death have perhaps been dispersed.

The Rev. Jonathan Williams, in his Leominster guide, 12mo. page 277, notices the library at Dynmore house, as containing "valuable books and manuscripts, elucidating the antiquities of this county, and which no writer who aspires to the character of its historian can omit consulting without detriment mingled with regret."

I have been informed that the late Philip Davies, bookseller, of Leominster, and Dr. Berrington, of Winsley, made collections for the county, but with no view to publication.

Thomas Bird, Esq. clerk of the peace, has several genealogical papers and other collections for Herefordshire.

Additions to Hereford Miscellanies.

HEREFORD Missal. Rouen. 1502.

In Dibdin's Typographical Antiquities, &c. 4to. Vol. 3, page 5, is an account of this Missal ; supposed to be printed by William Faques. The Title is stated to be thus :

Anno incarnationis dominice secundo supra quingentisimum atq ; millesimum, die vicesima prima mensis Septembris opera et industria M. Petri Oliuerii et Johannis Manditier, impressorum Rothomagi, juxta sacellum diui apostolorum principis Petri commorantium. Impensa vero Johannis Ricardi, mercatoris: hoc nouum et egregium opus sacri Missalis ad vsum famose ac percelebris ecclesie Helforden. nuper instanti ac peruigili cura visum correctum et emendatum, necnon auctoritate reuerendi in Christo patris et domini eiusdem ecclesie episcopi meritissimi ac dominorum decani et capituli, est in propatulo venale facili precio coram cunctis productum et exhibitum.

At the end of the Book is the following notice: "Finis missalis ad usum celebris ecclesie Helforden. summa cura ac vigili opera nuper impressum Rothomagi, cum additione accentuarii legentibus in ecclesiis valde utilis. Et hoc impensis Johannis Ricardi ejusdem Rothom. ciuis non immeriti; iuxta ecclesiam diui Nicolai commorantis."

In the beginning there is a wood cut of the King's Arms and George.

There are copies of this very rare Missal printed on vellum. The late Hezekiah Bedford, M. D. had a complete copy, and in the Bodleian Library there is an imperfect one. The Rev. T. F. Dibdin seems to allude to other editions of this Hereford Missal, as he notices the one of 1502 as the earliest impression. In his Bibliographical Decameron, Vol 1. p 12, he observes that its scarcity is extreme. No Copy of this rare volume is to be found in the British Museum, and the most eminent Bibliographers will be consulted in vain for any description of it. Hearne's vellum copy was the gift of his friend Charles Egyston. Gough, (Topography, Vol 1. to which I am indebted in part for the account given in page 17,) appears never to have seen the book. In the Repertorium Bibliographicum, Vol 1. p 85, Hearne's copy is called an 8vo. and is stated to be in the Bodleian Library.

And when he came into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his Concubine, and divided her together with her bones into twelve pieces, and sent her into all the coasts of Israel; And it was so, that all that saw it, said, there was no such deed done, nor seen, from the day that the Children of Israel came out of the land of Egypt, unto this day; Consider of it, Take Advice, and Speak your Minds. Collections concerning the Manor of Marden, in the County of Hereford. small folio.

The Original Copies have no Title page. The volume commences with signature B, page 1, and ends with Uuuuuuuu, 2, page 720, and an Index. The scarcity of the Index induced the Rev. Morgan Cove, D. C. L. Prebendary of Hereford, to reprint in 1813, at his own expence, twelve copies, being sheets Xxxxxxxx to Dddddddd: in all 28 pages. Dr. Cove also had printed the same number of copies of a Title page; and a brief historical descent of the Manor of Marden, 2 pages: (copied from Duncumb's Herefordshire.) These reprints, &c. were all executed by Thomas Davies, Printer, Hereford, and are nearly a fac-simile of the type of the original volume of the Collections.

To a very few copies of this scarce work, is annexed after page 720, a Supplement of 304 pages, being eight leaves E and  page 1 to 26 - D. E. F. and  five leaves, and Index: (collated from Mr. Dent's copy, noticed in the Repertorium Bibliographicum, Vol 1. p 50.)

These Collections contain authentic extracts and transcripts of inquisitions, records, &c. the originals of which were difficult of access, and many in all probability no longer exist. Thomas Earl Coningsby, who compiled this laborious work and printed it at his own cost, (probably in London,) attempted to establish by the documents he had collected together, claims on private property in Marden, Amberley, and other places in their vicinity, which he conceived ought to have belonged to him in right of his title of Lord of the Manor of Marden, which Manor was purchased by him in 1717. These presumed claims, and other violent and arbitrary conduct, embroiled his Lordship in perpetual disputes with the Gentry and Yeomanry in his neighbourhood; but after serving many respectable individuals with ejectments, and other law processes, he was finally obliged to relinquish his suppositious rights and privileges.

From the great rarity of "the Collections" it is believed the greater part of the copies were destroyed; and of those now in the possession of some Herefordshire Families, few are found complete. Many years ago, the present Earl of Essex (George Capel Coningsby,) when resident at Hampton Court, his seat in this County, gave my Father a perfect copy of this book, which, long afterwards, he was prevailed upon to part with to the late celebrated Collector James Edwards, Esq. from whom, I have heard, it past to the Library of Richard Gough, Esq. the well known Antiquary, and is now deposited on the shelves of the Bodleian Library.

In the old tower at Hampton Court, there were some perfect and imperfect copies; but it is supposed these rare volumes were by mistake considered useless, and probably shared the fate of other waste paper, "condemned to uses vile."

At Townley's Sale in 1814, Coningsby's Marden sold for £48. 6s. 0d.

Both tables make the first Mayor begin in 1382, but the reign of Richard 2nd. commencing June 21, 1377, consequently the seventh year must begin June, 1383 ; and the Charter for changing the name of Bailiff to Mayor, is dated November 15th. in the seventh year of his reign. N. B. Some of the Pamphlets noticed in this Catalogue have little or no connexion with the history, institutions &c. of Herefordshire, but being addressed to individuals of the county, or to the county at large, their insertion may, perhaps, be deemed admissible. A very extended list of works, written or published by Herefordshire Authors, (natives or residents,) on subjects quite unconnected with local affairs, and many of them printed in the county, may readily be made out, and for which I have ample materials.

* * * In some of the pages of this book I observe a few typographical and grammatical errors, which escaped correction in its progress through the press, but as they are of no importance, an Errata is not requisite.

Page vii, line 9 - for 1769 read 1759. A more perfect Catalogue of the Harleian Library has lately been published in 4 Vols. folio, with indexes. This most useful collection of manuscripts, consisting of nearly 8000 volumes, and above 40,000 original rolls, charters, warrants, and other authentic instruments, relating to the history and antiquities of Great Britain, was formed by Robert Harley, Earl of Oxford, of Brampton Bryan in this county; and completed by his son Edward, Earl of Oxford; at whose death the family disposed of the whole library to Parliament for the sum of £10,000, by whom it was ordered to be placed in the British Museum.

Page 59 - NOTE: "The Farmer against the three Attornies, &c." - for presenting a copy of this pamphlet to the Hereford Permanent Library, a prosecution for libel was commenced against me by Mr. Robert Williams, formerly of Monmouth, but now of Ailstone Hill near Hereford, attorney at law; who, with most commendable zeal for the vindication of his character, and for the laudable purpose of publicly exposing the alleged gross falsehoods contained in this very libellous publication, allowed the subject matter to be fully investigated in evidence. A reference to the Report of the Trial, published in the Hereford Journal, (April 3, 1822,) the Observer, Globe, and other newspapers, from the notes taken in short-hand by Mr. George Farquaharson of London, will satisfy the most sceptical person of the great and manifest injustice sustained by Mr. Williams. The damages laid at £500, - before a Special Jury, - verdict for the Plaintiff, £5. The very consolatory extra-judicial comment on this verdict, of course is well known to the worthy Plaintiff, and its local notoriety will ensure its remembrance amongst his friends.
